

ABSTRACT

Fuel cell power systems adapted for use in enclosures such as recreational vehicles include a fuel cell and, optionally, a fuel processor, together with appropriate electronics and balance of plant, that co-generate electricity, heat and water from fuels such as propane. The fuel cell power system supplies such enclosures with electrical power, heat and water.